You Can Be A Sponsor of.....

GREEN: What Does It Mean?

The Oklahoma Association for Environmental Education's
2002 Environmental Expo
February 7, Oklahoma City

The Oklahoma Association for Environmental Education (OKAEE) is an association dedicated to preserving and sustaining the environment through support of educational activities. Each year, OKAEE sponsors an Environmental Expo, bringing to Oklahoma internationally recognized speakers such as Dr. Jane Goodall to address relevant and timely issues. The Expo provides a network of resources and support for Oklahoma's environmental educators and others who work to help students and adults become aware of their impact on our environment.

In order to bring "GREEN: What Does It Mean? How to Green Your Backyard, Workplace and Campus" to the citizens of Oklahoma, sponsorships from individuals, agencies, businesses, and organizations are vital. A copy of the draft program is enclosed for your perusal. Opportunities to give exist at these levels:

Level of Sponsorship

$250 (acorn)
$500 (sapling)
$750 (red oak)
$1000 (mighty oak)
$2,000 (Sequoia)

Benefits

$250: One registration/luncheon ticket
$500 and up: Two registrations/two luncheon tickets/exhibit space
All sponsors will be listed in the program, brochure (if committed in time) $2000 (forest elf) and on large signs at conference.

For the last six years the OKAEE Environmental Expo has for the last six years provided marvelous opportunities to conscientious Oklahomans who are working toward responsible stewardship of our valuable resources. But, without the generous support of caring people like you, it would not be possible. Our brochures must go to print in mid-to-late November, so we will need your commitment by then to include you on the sponsor list.

Please consider helping to sponsor this worthwhile event. We will be hoping to hear from you soon with a positive reply.
